NAVY FLOATING DOCK.

The Admiralty's giant floating dockthe largest in the world-has been launched without ceremony from the shippard of Messrs Cammell, Laird and Co, at Birkenhead. The dock, which has been constructed to lift battleships with a displacement up to 32,000 tons, looked, when floated into the Mersey, like an enormous fortress with sidewalls towering nearly 70 ft. above water. It is capable of holding the latest type of super-Dreadnought, and it covers an area of two and a quarter ncres. Its length is 680 ft. and its width 144 ft. The side walls are 66 ft. high on the outside and rise 46h ft. above the pontoon that supports the whole structure. Along the floor of the dock run two rows of keel blocks to stendy the ship placed within it, and each of these is 640 ft. long and made throughout of English cak.

It is equipped with a valve house, travelling cranes, flying gangways, &c. and there is a complete service of telephones to connect the various machinery depôts with the principal control station in the valve house. Steam power is supplied from eight boilers of marine type worked at a pressure of 155 lbs. to the square inch. Living accommodation, including messrooms, &c., has been provided in the port walls for the dockmaster, petty officers, and dock crew.

LONDON YOUTH'S COOLNESS.

While hurrying across Newgate-street, London, near the Post Office corner, recently, a youth was accidentally knocked down by a van and rolled in front of an approaching motor-omibus, which went over blm.

Great was the amazement of the onlookers when they saw the boy crawl out from under the omnibus. He was assisted to the payament, but was found to be practically unhart, and flicking the due from his clothes he disappeared into the crowd as thought his experience was one of the common lides of city life,

The incessant rain in our Galloway village, writes a correspondent about his holidays, made us glad to accept the open invitation given to visitors by a celebrated artist to see his pictures in his bungalow, " near by," as the local phrase whether the other, Jock Anderson, did has it. Aniid many representations of loch and moorland, we found a portrait in oils of our host when a boy, pointed by his father. When new, it was exhibited at the Academy, where it attracted the attention of an Edinburgh gentleman, who inquired the price. The artist replied that the portrait was of his son, and being only of family interest, was not for sale. Thereupon came another letter in which the gentleman stated that he too had a son about the same age, and would the artist paint his portrait? The artist was a little dubious about undertaking the commission, and inquired whether the son was "interesting." The reply settled matters. It ran as follows:-" My son has neither brains nor good looks, so I suppose we had better drop the subject!" The letter was signed "T. FIGHT AGAINST DYSENTERY. fighting with each other:"

PHYSICIAN'S GREATEST The golden hours, we wasted, ALLY.

WHEN Dysentery is playing havor with the health and atrength of the unfortunate sufferer, he has urgent need of nourishment which is easily digestible; does not irritate the bowels, and is capable of sustaining his strongth, which is always greatly undermined by the disease.

When the acute stage is over, he has an even more imperative need of something which will restore his old feeling of health; bring back his sensation of well- oing and strength, enable him to put on the weight the bas lost, and present an appearance loss And like that of a skeleton.

There is nothing which will do both these things so rapidly, so thoroughly and so permanently as Sanatogen. The reason is that no preparation known to Science has so power'ul an action on the various systems. of the body which have been affected by the disease.

Sanatogen has been proved to be more easily digested than any other food pronamition. It, therefore, puts the minimum strain on the weakened organs of digestion.
It has been described by doctors as a "food which is all food and no waste;" therefore, it cannot irritate the intestines which, in dysentery, are peculiarly sensitive any irritating food:

It has a powerful tonic and restorative effect on the nervous system, because it contains the sait of phosphorus which is and in them; it therefore feeds the lifthe gods to men should give again brain and the nerves in the most perfect, as well as the most rapid, manner. By reason, too, of this phosphorus salt.

which that distin uished physician Sir William Gowers, and other eminent men. ye shown to be of primary importance to the blood making organs, it increases the number of red blood corpuscles as well as the quality of their colouring matter. As the body's waste products are burnt up t rough the medium of the blood it is obvious that the better its condition the more thoroughly is this all-important vital unction carried out.

In consequence of these three actions of Sanatogen, as well as of others on the other. great organs of the body, the health and strongth of the sufferer from dysentery are -one brought to a high degree of excellence and, what is not less important, the aufferer is so fortified against the disease that it is 'ar less likely to recur.

Here is a medical opinion—taken from shousands of others-of its value in such complaints:--Dr. A. H. T., Dum Dum, Bongal:-" I have used Sanatogen with most gratifying results in several cases convalescing from Malaria, Dysentery and Typhoid. I freely admit its nerve tonic action and highly nutritive value. Furthermore, I have tried it personally and have derived great benefit from its use. It increases the appetite and imparts energy to the body by the stimulating influence it has upon the powers of assimilation. I recommend it highly and pre-cribe it whenever necessary, thereby shortening the period of convalescence among my patients."

Write for a copy of a most interesting booklet "The Art of Living, by Dr. Andrew Wilson, which will be sent free to dl mentioning this paper on application to A, Wulfing and Co., S, Kitking Road.

Sanatogen can be obtained of all chemists.

Superstition has a firm, hold on Papua. A report on that island, issued recently by the Parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia, shows at once how much has been done to civilise the natives in the past few years and how great is the task that you remains.

There are sorcerers everywhere. In his report the magistrate for the Trobriend Islands tells a very laughable story. Toulu, a chief with 17 wives, the head chief and most feared native in th district, was sent to prison for baving conspired to murder Moliasi, a village policeman. He had made certain pay ments to a native soreerer for the pur pose of putting Moliasi " out of the way," but the native turned King's evidence.

Toulu at home goes in for a lot of court ceremonial. Every native ap proaching or passing him has to bend double. There were about a dozen other prisoners in gaol at the time." was considerably surprised on visiting the gang the morning of Toulu's arrivato find them all working in a huddled up position. I have more than shrewd suspicion that the prison warder was bending at the moment of my approach. I told Toulu that ceremonial must be in abeyance until he was discharged. He said nothing, but the expression of his face said, "It is your fault for putting me here." The other prisoners straightened themselves with relief, but, half an hour later, on looking furtively round a corner, I saw that they were all on their stomachs again. The gaoler had compromised with Gibson Girl bend. Thenceforward, Toulu worked by himself, and not with the regular gang.

PREMATURE BURLLL.

There is danger of premature burial in the Trobriand Islands. A report concerning the work of the special hospital staff deals with a very peculiar case. funeral of a middle-aged man was in progress, and the body, wrapped in native mats, was being carried to the grave, when just before the party reached the burial ground a weak but indignant voice was heard from the midst of the mats. The bearers were astonished, and the supposed corpse was carried to the house. The mats were then pulled from the man's face :--. He was raised to a sitting position, after which he asked for a banana. It was given to him, and he slowly ste it and asked for another. He ate this also. He then made signs indicating that he wished to recline. This was done. After some little time he was examined again, and found to be

The delayed interment was resumed, the grave was reached, and a few handfuls of soil were thrown on the mats. Again sounds of indignation were heard, and " this time the bearers were considerably annoyed. . . . The general feeling was that the burial should be proceeded with." The local policeman arrived and expressed sympathy for the bearers and relatives who had been put to such 'shame." At the same time he stated that although the "deceased" richly deserved the auger of his relatives, there would be trouble if the Government heard that they had buried a living man. The body was accordingly taken up and back again to the house. This time he had a drink of water, and altogether scemed more cheerful. Meanwhile a meeting of relatives and friends was taking place in a neighbouring house. After many expressions of regret, in which the feeling of their great shame was uppermost, the question which had to be solved was, " How long was this thing to be continued?"

The unusualness of the occasion which caused the meeting left the majority without power to make suggestions, but finally it was arranged that a cord should next time be tightly wound round the throat. Twice the spirit of the man had attempted to get away, but had been prevented by the body. It was their duty to help the spirit. First, however, it was decided to consult the constable. He, much again to his regret, had to say that, if they used the rope for the purpose specified, the Government would be annoyed. Why it would be annoyed he could not exactly say, but he felt sure it would be. Better wait, was his advice. Later on word was brought to them that the sick man was again sink ing. The funeral eventually took place. GETEF SOMERSAULTS.

HOME OF SORCERY.

(Continued from page 4.) A had account is given of an inland tribe-the Kuku-Kukus-who only a few years ago used to pay occasional visits to the coast in search of victims for their cannibalistic feasts. "This practice." the report states, " has ceased since they were met by the resident magistrate and some police on their return from a raid When a boy approaches manhood he is compelled to pass through a period seclusion, during which he is placed. the Eravo, or "men's house." He is confined in the dark, and must not appear outside the Eravo in the daytime unless he is covered from head to foot in a leaf or grass bag. The resident magistrate, commenting on this custom, states that

BETROTHED AT RIGHTH. In the magisterial report for Port Moresby the Maoheni, or marriage betrothal contract, which relegates the native woman to the status of a chattel, is condemned :-- 🐣 Children just born are in immerable instaucos betrothed, and payment made to the family of the female infant, and no matter how much the girl dislikes her affianced husband when she attains marriageable age, she cannot protest. When not betrothed in infancy, the father of a young man selects a wife for his son, and approaches the parents of the girl with the payment. If the payment is accepted the girl takes up her abode in the husband's house, and in many instances she may never have seen or spoken to that husband before entering his home. She is never consulted as to her likes or willingness.

In the Mekeo district it was the cus tom for people to bury their dead under their houses, as the soreerers used to dig up, the bodies in the cemetery and remove a hand occasionally for their diabolical purposes. Even now the people sleep on the graves in the cemeteries for about three months after a burial to prevent the violation of the bodies by sorcerers. Of one of the villages' the magistrate Inquired and found that they do not bury their dead at all but earry them miles dways to a selected place, where they place the bodies on platforms and who go a shooting into Chinese territory allow them to dry and decompose in the sun for a period of four months. They then go and place the remains amongst the rocks or in caves. I was told that there are very many skeletons in this place.

NATIVES AND OTSTERS. In the Trobriand Islands the assistant residente magistrate reports :--

It is interesting to remember that less than 25 years ago the frizzy-haired Trobriand native, when taking his evening oyster meal, was in the habit of disgustedly expectorating, and, in all probability with much uncomplimentary language, ejecting from his mouth pearls similar to those which to-day are worth anything from £1 to £150. In which she had failed to remove all the " stones." And later on, when the first white trader came along, he is credited with having filled a pickle-jar pounds of tobacco, and the natives thought the white man a fool for buy-

KWONGTUNG NEWS.

(From Our Own Correspondent). REPORTED SHOOTING ACCIDENT NEAR MACAO.

The local Minister for Foreign Affairs in Canton is reported to have written to the Portuguese Consul complaining that on the twenty-third of last month, three or four Portuguese went into the country near Tain Shan in order to do a little shooting. It appears from the statement that they were not so cautious as they ought to have been, for a woman and two children were injured by one of the shots. The woman was hit in the shoulder and hand; one of the children was hit in the hand, and the other had t'e head grazed by a shot. The despatch goes on 'o say that "though the wounds in the case of each were not serious, yet it is to be regretted that it has happened". The police were ordered to go at once to the village, and see that there was no disturbance, and that no rumours were circulated which might tend to create disturbance; for the people were to understand that it was an accident and nothing else. Apparently, however, the matter may lead to serious consequences from one point of view. The Minister of Foreign Affairs has further written to infrom the Portuguese authorities and others con-erned, that this going into the country without passports cannot be allowed. The sportsmen, apparently, were not provided with such permits, and so they we a breaking the law. If nothing had hap pened, nothing would have been said Now the Chinese officials, and rightly, are taking there sland, and say that such people were not authorized to be there at all, are that this sort of thing must cease. According to our authority, the Portuguese Consul in Canton has been advised to inform the Governor of Macao of this decision, that he may advise his people, so that a similar accident may not occur again. The cu rent phrase, with which many of us are quite familiar, is quoted; "If foreigners I travelling in the country are guilty of any breach of the peace, or any infringment of ] ] Chinese law, they are to be arrested at once and handed over to their respective consuls, who shall punish them as the case deserves"-or words to this effect. "Here however we have four men who have no passport at all, who go out to shoot where they have no authority to go, and then further wound some of the natives; surely, this is quite out of harmony with any Do treaty." Sportsmen, during the autumn, out pusaports accidents are likely to occur. L. THE FATE OF THE IDOLS. Wong, the Great Fairy, is the name of a god in Canton, who has dedicated to his honour a big temple. It appears that the officials wanted the temple, that it might be transformed into a refuge for little chil- a' dren who have no means of subsistence, and who may have been picked up in the Pis streets; indeed a kind of crêche. The officials had already ordered those whose duty it was to look after the temple to prepare it for this purpose, though no advice appears to have been given as to the destination of the goods and idols. These people, however, were somewhat dilatory, and seemed in no hurry to interfere with the idols. Thereupon the police authorities ordered some of their men to go them. selves and clear the temple of its idels. this they appeared to enjoy, and went those days he used to kick his wife for to work with a will. The word once carried a suggestion of something very like intemperance, dirt, and blackguardism; then it connoted a mild interest in the less serious forms of art and literature, together with a taste for eccentric clothing; the modern Bohemian is given to extreme scrupulosity as to his appearance, and is on the whole much more conventional than a bank clerk. I have made a thorough examination of a sample of D.C.L. Mait Extract, and I find it to be of exceptionally high quality. value of Malt Extract as a food depends largely on the thount of nitrogenous constituents, and its value as an aid to digestion on the amount of diastase present. I have compared D.C.L. Malt Extract with twelve other Malt Extracts on the market, including all the principal makes, and I find that in both these respects it is much superior to any other.

I have examined samples of the D.O.I. Extract bought in the ordinary way and not obtained direct from the makers, at intervals during the last few years, and on each occusion have found it to be of the same excellent quality.

ECZEMA ON WRIST

Swollen and Inflamed to Shoulder. Dry, Crusty Scales. Could Not Sleep for the Itch. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Cured-eczems. I can tell you I got relief the first time I used the Cuticura Soap and Cintment. I had

ecrema on the wrist

of my right arm; I had it for fully six months and tried lots of remedies that peo-ple told me about, but did no good. A chemist told me is was eczema and gave me a small box of cinment. I saked him if I would require to take anything inwardly, he said nothing but a little suiphur, but it had no affect. I often saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised so I resolved to try them and see. "I am very pleased to say that the first time I used both the Cuticurs. Soap and Cuticurs Ointment they gave me relief. Suffered over six months and sometimes a could not get to sleep for the itch in my symmethem the pimples broke and the moisture spread on my arm and a dry crusty scale came over it. My arm was all swollen and inflamed up to my shoulder. I could hardly lift it up. When I got the crusty scales. inflamed up to my shoulder. I could hardly lift it up. When I gos the crusty scaled washed off, it was raw red flesh undernestly, but in about a week's time you saw it disappearing and a nice new skin coming over it.

"It is all nice and strong and I can work in as much water as I need, it does not hurt it. I just cured it with Cuticura flemedies. I can recommend anybody suffering with it to try them." (Signed) Miss at Lillie, Hatchednize, Coldstream, Berwickschire, N. B., April 13, 1911.

Cuticura Soan and Cintment are sold. Cuticura Soap and Cintment are sold, throughout the world. A liberal sample of each with 32-p. book free from nearest depois F.
